

Harry Lauder's Walking Stick

(Corylus avellana 'Contorta')

Shrub

10' - 15' High

10' - 15' Spread

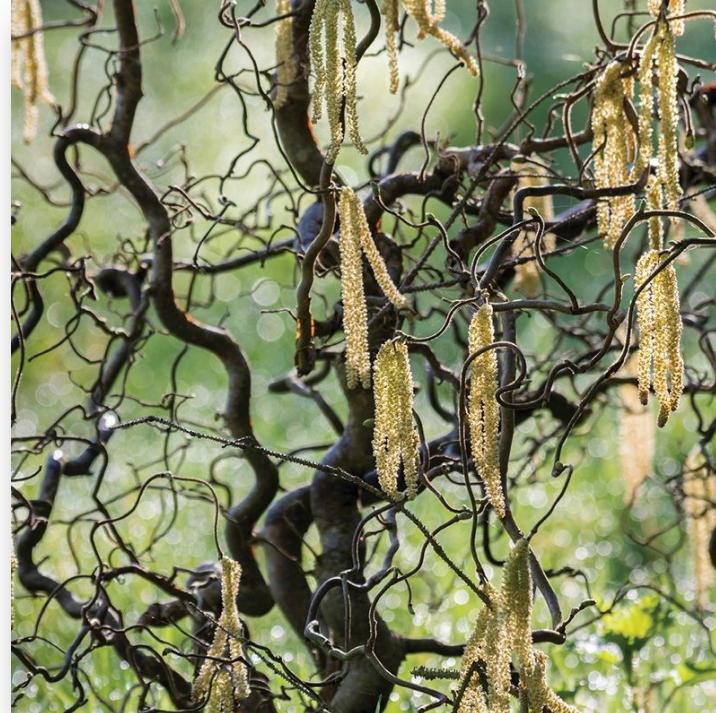

4 + Hours

Yellow Catkins
Twisted Branches

Zone 3 - 9

The most striking feature of the Harry Lauder's Walking Stick is its contorted, twisted branches that give it a unique, sculptural look. In late winter to early spring, before the leaves emerge, the Harry Lauder's Walking Stick produces small, yellow catkins. Due to its striking appearance, the Harry Lauder's Walking Stick is often used as a focal point in landscapes.

