

White Pillar[®] Althea

(Hibiscus syriacus 'Gandini van Aart' USPP28892)

Shrub

12' - 16' High

4' - 5' Spread

4 + Hours

Columnar Shape
Double Flowers

Zone 5 - 9

The White Pillar Althea is a striking cultivar of the Rose of Sharon, boasting an elegant and statuesque presence. With its tall, upright growth habit, this deciduous shrub stands as a regal pillar in the garden. As summer takes hold, the White Pillar[®] Althea comes alive with an abundance of magnificent flowers, captivating onlookers with their sheer beauty. In essence its towering elegance, adorned with snow-white petals, invites admiration and creates a focal point of refined beauty.

