Yay! It's Patient Appreciation Month

Amazing Smiles Family Dentistry would like to take the time to thank our amazing patients for your continued trust, support, understanding, and the beautiful smiles that you continuously bring with you to our office. Helping you and your loved ones to maintain your oral health brings us so much joy and purpose.

This April, we wanted to ensure that we take the time to show you just how much we truly appreciate you.

"Helping you and your loved ones brings us so much joy and purpose"

That's why we've decided to make April our Patient Appreciation Month! Throughout the month, when you come in for an appointment, you will have the opportunity to spin our special patient appreciation prize wheel for discounts on your appointment. In addition, you'll have a chance to enter your name in a raffle for a free Take - Home Teeth Whitening Kit!

We look forward to seeing you and assisting you with your oral care!

Did you know?...

This year commemorates Amazing Smiles' 17th year in practice! Over the years, we've had many loyal patients who've been with us through it all! If you've been a long-time patient of Amazing Smiles Family Dentistry, let's see how well you know us!

1. What year was Amazing Smiles Family Dentistry founded?
2. What's our amazing doctor's name?
3. True or False: Amazing Smiles is a veteran owned practice.
4. True or False: Amazing Smiles is a family dentistry that services patients 6 and up.

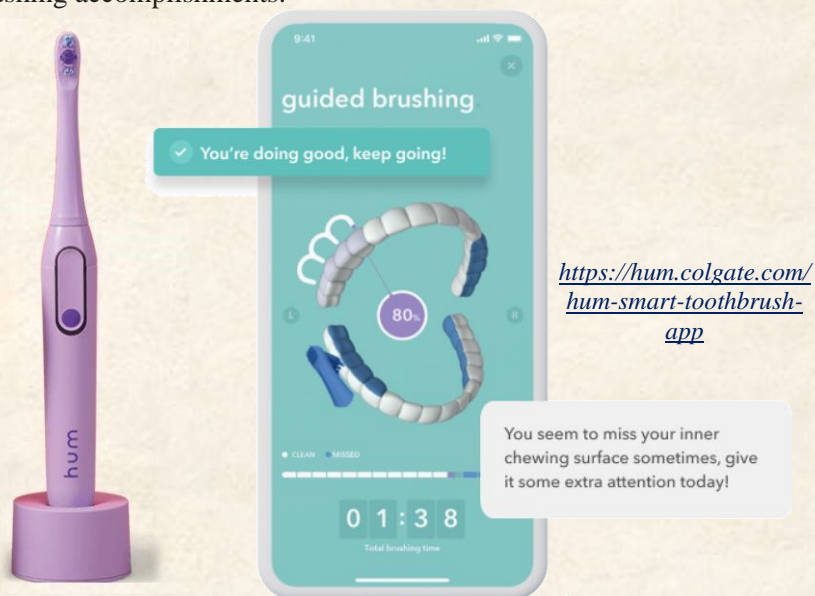

Cool At- Home Dental Technology

As with all technology, dental technology is constantly evolving to consumer needs. So much so that even we're surprised by the advancements that are being made for at-home oral hygiene care. Below are two of the latest at-home dental technologies that we found to be pretty cool:

1. Smart Toothbrush

Smart phones, smart cars, smart watches... I guess we shouldn't be too surprised by a smart toothbrush. Many brands such as Colgate and Oral-B have introduced toothbrushes that connect to apps on your smartphone to provide a "guided" brushing experience. These apps monitor your brushing habits to provide tips, suggestions and even rewards.

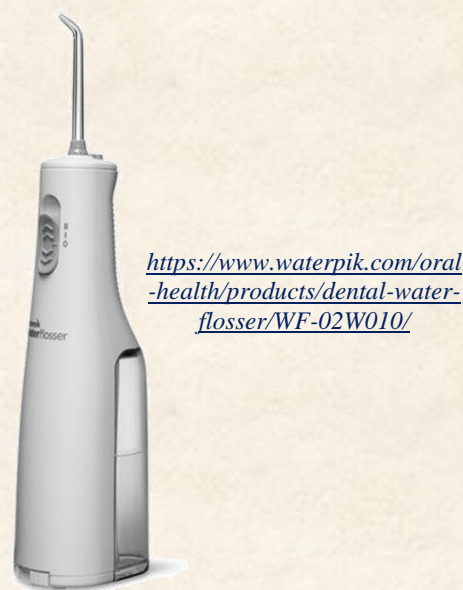

The example below is pulled from Colgate's website featuring their new Hum toothbrush and app. This particular app can apparently make suggestions to your brushing angle, speed, and location – as well as awards "smile points" for continuous brushing accomplishments.

2. Water Interdental Cleaners

These aren't necessarily new, but many who could benefit from these flossing tools still don't know about them. Water flossers are a popular alternative to using traditional floss to clean between your teeth. Flossing is essential in preventing tooth decay and gum disease but there are many who can't (people with arthritis for example) as well as people who just don't (some don't know how or find it tedious). Regardless of your reason for not flossing, it will disadvantage you; looking into flossing alternatives can help.

Several water flossers have been ADA approved and are simple and quick to use. For example, this Waterpik Cordless Express Water Flosser has a sleek, easy to manage design that can easily sit on your bathroom counter. By placing the nozzle in your mouth and aiming at the gum line, you're able to easily remove food and plaque from the places a toothbrush would miss.

Remember, even though at home dental care is evolving, that does not eliminate the need for regular dental visits.

Also, good old fashioned at-home dental care is still highly effective: brushing with a soft-bristle toothbrush for 2 minutes twice a day, flossing before brushing your teeth, and using a fluoride mouthwash to go the extra mile. However, for those of you inspired by technology, maybe these advancements will help you with your at-home oral hygiene routine.
