HILDEBRAND
CARE CENTER

Pat Draper

Pat came to Hildebrand following a fall at home that resulted in a fracture of her pelvis. When Pat came she couldn't even stand up out of bed without help due to pain and weakness. Pat worked hard, embraced all the strategies that the therapists gave her and was able to discharge back home with her family. She's excited, though to return to visit and show everyone how much progress she'll continue to make. Of her time working with the staff at Hildebrand, Pat says, "it turned a bad situation into a good thing." At Hildebrand, we're committed to ensuring that all patients make progress in the areas that are most important to them. By utilizing the Patient-Specific Function Score, we help to ensure that the patient is active in setting their goals. Pat chose to focus on "moving better, working on my balance," and most importantly she wanted to get back home. On all three measures Pat had resounding success, increased her assessment of how well she could do those three things from just 2/10 to 9.33/10. Her achievement showed up in areas like transferring, using the bathroom and walking where she made great strides. We're so proud of Pat's hard work, her family's support and the care of all the staff members at Hildebrand that helped her achieve her goal of going home!

Danielle Russak, PTA and DOR, who is already bringing clinical expertise to her new role, Dustin Oswalt, New Grad PTA but already amazing practitioner Dustin Oswalt, PT Anja Vera who is hiding in the picture but whose skills are very clear to see, Pat Draper, Nicholas Jongeljes, PT student who is already showing the care and clinical judgement that will make him a great PT and Jasmine Riley, ST who consistently achieves great results with all her patients.
