Cedar House Life Change Center in Bloomington recently held its sixth annual Alumni Day celebration.

More than 400 attended the May 10 event, including Cedar House graduates with their families and friends, plus community leaders, according to a news release. Also at the event were representatives of 30 organizations with resources for the Cedar House graduates.

The celebration included food, entertainment, speakers, games, prizes and music.

Three Cedar House graduates shared their stories of success after completing the program, and all Cedar House graduates at the event received recovery pins.

“Alumni Day was another huge success,” Jamie Lamb, chief executive officer of Cedar House, said in the news release. “It was great to see so many organizations partner up with us to provide resources for our clients and graduates. We love seeing the recovery community come together to celebrate and inspire one another.”

Cedar House Life Change Center provides treatment for people affected by addiction. Its Bloomington facility is at 18612 Santa Ana Ave.
