Sdh Welcomes Back Ross Binford

SATANTA, KS — The Holistic Pain Management (HPM) team at Satanta District Hospital (SDH) is happy to welcome back Ross Binford, PA-C, a dedicated Physician Assistant with more than seven years of healthcare experience, providing comprehensive, patient-centered care across Kansas. He specializes in pain management and spine care helping patients improve function, reduce pain, and return to the activities that matter most to them.

Ross has cared for patients in a variety of settings, including outpatient clinics, hospitals, and emergency departments. His clinical interests include preventive medicine, chronic disease management, musculoskeletal conditions, and interventional pain care. He is committed to developing individualized treatment plans that address each patient's unique needs while emphasizing education, wellness, and long-term health outcomes.

Ross comes to SDH as part of the HPM team which treats patients for their long-standing pain with a seamless process designed to provide effective, patient-focused care with improved outcomes. HPM treats several conditions including migraines, neck pain, back pain, hip pain, knee pain, shoulder pain, joint pain, and much more. Treatment entails initial consultation, imaging and physical therapy, interventional treatment, and dedicated follow-up all right here in Haskell Country.

To align schedules, SDH is moving Ross's clinic day to Thursday, twice a month where he will be taking over many of Spencer Anderson's patients. Spencer will continue taking Holistic Pain Management patients, but he will be slowly taking a step back from SDH.

Ross is excited to come back to Satanta and the whole medical team at SDH is welcome to have him back. If you're interested in scheduling treatment for your chronic pain, call 620-551-0518 or visit www.myhpm.com for more information.
