For more than 80 years, IWWA has been a stakeholder in the interests and welfare of Iowa’s groundwater. Currently, 72 percent of Iowans depend on groundwater for their drinking water supply.* It’s easy to see why the association focuses on education, legislation and public awareness.

IWWA connects professionals who are licensed in the water well industry, manufacturers and wholesale distributors, government representatives and companies that provide small business services that add value to the bottom line. With its expanded membership, members cultivate a stronger, diversified network that benefits them and the publics they serve.

Join IWWA today and take advantage of an increasingly extensive knowledge base. Use this opportunity to grow your career, your business and public awareness in your community.

“I joined IWWA because another contractor asked me to and I felt that it was the thing to do at the time. I have since found that the education opportunities and the help, when needed, by fellow contractors is great. But the most important thing is the true camaraderie with fellow members who have the same values for the water industry as you do.”

You meet great people in the same industry and you have an opportunity to share experiences and learn from others. When a situation happens, you have a network of people to call.
